Subject: Job Opportunities for Graduating STEM Students! ___

Dear Professor,

Our hope is that you will forward this email to graduating students to let them know that there are still teaching opportunities available, but that vacancies are quickly being filled. Thank you for your time.

May is typically the busiest hiring month for private/independent schools with administrators seeking to fill the last of the open jobs before summer break. While many private/independent schools are still looking for teachers, and there are still opportunities for your graduating students, the time to apply is now.

Qualifications Schools are looking for:

- If you studied biology, chemistry, physics, math, engineering, neuroscience, or other STEM fields, your skill set is in demand in schools.
- For secondary school, teaching certification is desirable but not required.
- You do need the ability and willingness to work with kids! Any camp counselor, coaching, or tutoring experience may be relevant work experience.

How does it work?

- Apply: fill out an online application with Southern Teachers.
- Schedule: If we can help with your job search, your assigned Placement Counselor will schedule an interview to learn about your background and search requirements.
- Connect: we will identify the best job opportunities for you and start connecting you with schools.

Still have questions about how Southern Teachers works and how we can help you find a teaching job? Visit SouthernTeachers.com or schedule a 15-minute meeting during Recruiting Office Hours with our Recruitment Coordinator, Ali Buchanan.

Best,
